Cassina expands the Somewhere EL-S and Volage EX-S Night collections

After the success of Somewhere EL-S launched last year to celebrate the 30-year collaboration between Cassina and Philippe Starck, the collection expands with new versions of the poufs and bench. This evolution is complemented by a new variant of the Volage EX-S Night bed, a piece that blends artisan craftsmanship, technology, tradition and modernity.

Volage EX-S Night*: a new interpretation in leather for the sleeping area

Cassina presents a new version of Volage EX-S Night, a bed distinguished by a curated and essential design. The natural-coloured leather-upholstered headboard has a very thick grain, reflecting the refined aesthetic of the elegant Somewhere EL-S seating pieces, particularly evident in the contrasting stitching that accentuates its fine saddlery workmanship.

This version of the bed is available in three precious combinations: Clear, Brown and Dark. Each version highlights the quality of materials, with hand-finished details like bold top-stitching and contrasting stitching that precisely outline its silhouettes in a perfect display of Cassina's expertise.

As with the entire Volage EX-S Night collection, both sides of the headboard are equipped with aluminium bars, designed to host a versatile selection of functional accessories. A large fabric lampshade, available in ivory, peach or grey, radiates a soft, enveloping light while a small dimmable LED spotlight can be aimed to facilitate reading.

In addition, the upholstered plywood bed frame can be fitted with the Breath®, the first patented technology for air purification that captures and breaks down contaminants to encourage the natural circulation of clean air. The structure of the bedhead, on the other hand, contains Soundfil®, a recycled, hygienic, non-toxic material utilised in Cassina beds to limit and diminish surrounding sounds.

Somewhere EL-S*: a design evolution

Philippe Starck's enriches the Somewhere EL-S collection with a pouf and a bench in a new upholstery that further emphasises the artisanal excellence of its craftsmanship. The new version of the poufs, available in two sizes, and the bench have a closure without the metal elements, facilitating a more versatile use within the home. The choice of materials and the attention to detail, like the saddlery-inspired stitching, lend each piece a sense of timeless elegance, where the sophistication of the workmanship blends with a clean, modern silhouette.
